

The Northwest Community Health Leadership Institute announces

The 2011 University of Washington Certificate Program in Community Health Leadership

A Professional Certificate program

May 19-21
July 28-30
October 20-22

Never in its 45-year history has the community health center movement been better positioned to make use of the finest leadership potential available! The Institute provides opportunities for current and future community and migrant health center leaders to collaborate and build the knowledge and skills so critically needed for effective leadership and management of community and migrant health centers in federal regions VIII and X.

“This authentic and emerging health center leadership program gives each participant immediate tools and skills to improve not only their clinics but also their communities.”

Ken Davis, Medical Director, Mountain Family Health Center, Glenwood Springs, Colorado

“We’ll address the rapid growth and increasing complexity of health center leadership. We’ve found it’s not what you think about, it’s how you think.”

Edward Walker, University of Washington Faculty

Join your peers and immerse yourself in leadership development. Learn to . . .

- Think differently
- Perform differently
- Interact differently

Focus on the skills and concepts that really matter in health center leadership:

- Managing organizations and systems
- Executive leadership
- Application of management and leadership concepts and principles

For Organizational Leaders with Great Potential

- Current federal Region VIII and X Community and Migrant Health Center Executive Directors/CEOs, CFOs, COOs, HR Directors and Medical/Dental/Pharmacy Directors
- Mid-level managers identified by their Health Center ED/CEO as potential organizational leaders.

(A letter of support from the CEO or Board Chair is required for application.)

2011 PROGRAM SCHEDULE

“In all of my formal education and experience, I have never been in a room with so many people who shared similar issues and concerns. This UW certificate program offered me the opportunity to learn management and leadership within a community health setting. I was able to apply everything I learned immediately. Thank you so much for this experience.”

Callie Gard, 2008 UW CHL Graduate
